

Mac Dougal of Lorn's Lament

The first eight staves of the manuscript contain handwritten musical notation. The notation is written in a cursive style and includes various musical symbols such as notes, rests, and bar lines. The music appears to be a single melodic line, possibly for a lute or a similar stringed instrument. The notation is dense and fills most of the space of each staff.

The bottom half of the page consists of seven empty musical staves. These staves are arranged in a vertical column and are completely blank, with no musical notation or markings. They appear to be part of the original manuscript but have not been filled with music.
